REJUVENATION THERAPY, COMPLETE SAFETY

Prior to the procedure your doctor may apply a topical anesthetic to your skin to make the procedure more comfortable during treatment. Intravenous sedation is not required. The doctor will move the laser around the treatment area utilizing customized settings for optimal results. After the procedure, your skin will be red, similar to a sunburn. The redness will continue for a few days. By day three or four, you will experience some peeling as your fresher skin appears. In most cases, your skin will return to its normal appearance in about seven to ten days.

After the laser procedure is completed, a cold compress will be applied. During the recovery period you will apply a hydrating lotion to keep your skin moist and promote healing. In most cases, you may resume applying makeup after about three days.

In most cases, DOT Therapy can treat an entire face within twenty minutes. Smaller areas take less time.

How many treatments are required with DOT Therapy?

In most cases, excellent results can be achieved in a single session. However, persons with more severe skin conditions may benefit from a series of treatments spaced about one month apart. Your doctor will advise you on what results you can reasonably expect.
